Official Launch PEX Series Carpet Extractors from U.S. Products Announced

Quiet a Key Feature

Mukilteo, Wash. - U.S Products, a leading manufacturer of carpet, floor care, and restoration cleaning equipment, announces the official launch date for the company's new PEX Series portable carpet extractors.

The machines, co-developed by engineers at U.S. Products and Nilfsk-Advance, were on display at last year's ISSA/INTERCLEAN North America® tradeshow. However, it did not go into production until earlier this year.

The new system is available in two models:

- The Carpet and Rug Institute (CRI) Silver-certified 200 with adjustable 50 to 200 psi and a dual 2-stage vacuum motor; and
- The CRI Gold-certified 500 with 50 to 500 psi, complete with a dual 3-stage vacuum motor.

Both units have what engineers call an upright "dolly" design to make it easier for one-person maneuvering as well as on-demand 212 F heat.

According to Mark Baxter, product and training manager for U.S. Products, one of the key benefits of the machine is how quiet it is.

"Quieter machines result in less fatigue, are less disruptive in both homes and offices, and compliment Day Cleaning systems," he says.

He adds that the company is beginning a series of tests to confirm its low decibel rating in multiple cleaning situations.
