E-Learning Update

Developers Report “Astonishing” Amount of Activity

Peterborough, ON, Canada – February 22, 2010 - Enviro-Solutions, Inc., a leading manufacturer of Green cleaning chemicals, products, and supplies, reports that more than 419 people from 50 different companies have participated in its new e-learning program.

The program--which includes more than 100 training modules, approximately 30 PowerPoint presentations, and several video presentations--is designed specifically for jansan distributors, DSRs, and other cleaning professionals.

It was first introduced at last year's ISSA/INTERCLEAN® North America trade show in Chicago.

The company also reports that more than 1,000 people have logged onto the site during just the past 30 days.

“I would like to congratulate each and every one of these people,” says Mark Warner, Enviro Solutions' Director of Training, who was directly involved with building the program. “These people have invested in themselves, which can only translate into sales and success in their futures.”

Warner also announced that the program is being modified as a result of suggestions from the scores of people who have completed the course. “The good news is, the improvements make the experience even better,” he says. “Our goal is to make this a positive educational experience.”

The program also offers toll free technical support, which helps ensure participants have no problems taking the classes.

“We were not totally sure how this [e-learning program] would be received,” adds Warner. “We’re all pioneers in this, and we are actually quite astonished it has gone over so well.”

Access to an introduction of the program is available by visiting the Resource Center on the Enviro-Solutions’ web site located at www.enviro-solution.com.
