CANTON, MA -- Pro-Link, a jan-san-focused marketing and buying group has named Stacie E. Faria its new marketing coordinator.

Faria has a degree in communication studies and a background in marketing and customer service. She previously worked with a B2B healthcare company, managing and coordinating its marketing campaign projects, maintaining its databases, and developing promotional product literature.

"Stacie gets things done," says Mike Nelson, Pro-Link's vice president of marketing. "She wore many hats at her previous job and was the recipient of four awards from her former employer, honoring her for exceptional job performance. We are very excited about having her join the Pro-Link team." Faria adds that she has been looking for new challenges and to branch out into new industries. "I'm impressed with both Pro-Link and the jan-san industry," she says. "I know this industry helps keep people healthy, and I am proud to be a part of it."
