Soy Says Sustainable

The soybean urinals developed by Waterless No-Flush™ Urinals look and perform like other no-flush urinals and use the same EcoTrap™ system famous for its long-lasting dependability, but they are made of 30 percent soybean resin.

No-Flush urinals made with soybean resin offer several environmental advantages over conventional urinals, waterless or not.

For instance, soybeans are a rapidly renewable and abundant resource, it minimizes the use of more environmentally objectionable materials such as formaldehyde, and it helps reduce our country's reliance on foreign petroleum markets.

What's more, the urinals look good, too.
